GOVERNMENTAL NEWS

The Grapevine wishes to express its gratitude to those state offices who took the time to contribute information provided in the following section.

ARKANSAS

ACT 753 OF 1991

"AN ACT TO PROHIBIT THE DESECRATION OF HUMAN SKELETAL BURIAL REMAINS IN UNREGISTERED CEMETERIES; TO PROHIBIT TRADE OR COMMERCIAL DISPLAY OF HUMAN SKELETAL BURIAL REMAINS OR ASSOCIATED BURIAL FURNITURE; AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES."

Act 753 of 1991 prohibits the desecration of human remains in unregistered cemeteries and the trade or commercial display of remains or associated burial artifacts. The Act applies to all human remains, whether on private or public property, land or water.

Through Act 753, the Arkansas General Assembly intends that all human remains, regardless of ethnic origin, cultural background, religious affiliation, or date of burial or disposal should receive equal treatment and respect for human dignity.

Archaeologists doing research in Arkansas should adhere to the following procedures when dealing with human burial remains:

- 1.) Under Section 7 of Act 753, archaeologists must justify projects that will encounter burials or have the potential to encounter burials by sending to the State Historic Preservation Officer a copy of the research design or mitigation plan for the project. The justification must show that the archaeologist has the consent of the landowner to excavate on the property and that the project archaeologist is employed by the State of Arkansas or the United States government, or meets the U.S. Department of Interior's professional qualifications as found in the current Code of Federal Regulations. An Acknowledgement will be made in writing.

- 2.) If human remains are encountered, the archaeologist must notify the State Historic Preservation Officer, who will assist with the consultation process indicated in Section 7, of Act 753.
- 3.) The disposition of any human remains must follow procedures in Sections 8 and 9 of Act 753.
- 4.) Scientific recovery and forensic studies should be conducted according to Appendix K of "A State Plan for the Conservation of Archaeological Resources in Arkansas."
- 5.) One copy of the final report should be filed with the library of the Arkansas Archaeological Survey and one with the Arkansas Historic Preservation Program.

For more information, contact the Arkansas Archaeological Survey at PO Box 1249, Fayetteville, AR 72702-1249, ☎ 501-575-3556, or the Arkansas Historic Preservation Program, 225 East Markham, Suite 200, Little Rock, AR 72205, ☎ 501-324-9346.

The City of Little Rock Historic District Commission and the Quapaw Quarter Association will hold a reception April 23, 1992 to honor Arkansas' Certified Local Governments. The Reception will be held 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Villa Marre, 1321 Scott Street, Little Rock, AR.

COLORADO

Colorado Archaeology Week will be observed April 26-May 2, 1992. If you would like to join in the activities or want further information about specific events contact Dr. Susan Collins, Colorado Historical Society, 1300 Broadway, Denver, CO 80203, ☎ 303-866-3395.

In 1990, amendments were passed to the 1973 state law protecting historic, archaeological and paleontological resources. The amendments clarified language in the original law, provided guidelines for arranging out-of-state loans of collections, and detailed procedures for discoveries of unmarked human graves. Regulations also were recently passed implementing the 1975 State Register of Historic Places Act and, in 1990, a State Preservation Tax Credit law was passed (it necessitated finalizing the regulations for the State Register Act). Submitted by Kevin Black, Assistant State Archaeologist.

MINNESOTA

In 1991 the Minnesota SHPO renewed efforts to continue the Statewide Archaeological Survey initiated in 1977. The survey, which was suspended in 1981 due to budget cuts, have identified and recorded hundreds of sites in various counties throughout the state.

Last year, the SHPO sponsored an archaeological survey of Traverse County. Results of the survey identified 35 new sites and reexamined 30 previously recorded sites. Most sites had a Late Prehistoric affiliation (ca. A.D. 900-1700), while a few recovered materials were affiliated with Early Prehistoric components. According to The Minnesota Preservation Planner, "The Late Prehistoric sites are particularly interesting as they demonstrate cultural linkages between Minnesota's woodlands and the Great Plains. The Plains Village culture of western Minnesota features stockaded villages where corn growing peoples probably had substantial houses. The outlines of the fortification trenches at several Traverse County sites can still be seen."

Information taken from The Minnesota Preservation Planner: A newsletter on historic preservation from the State Historic Preservation Office of the Minnesota Historical Society.

NEW MEXICO

This year's New Mexico Heritage Preservation Week will be celebrated May 9-17. For a calendar of events contact Lynne Sebastian, Historic Preservation Division, 228 East Palace Avenue, Santa Fe, NM 87110, ☎ 505-827-6320.

Recently, the New Mexico SHPO has revised state guidelines for historic preservation. Also in the planning stage are draft guidelines for incorporating Traditional Cultural Properties into the § Section 106 guidelines.

NORTH CAROLINA

Throughout the upcoming year the North Carolina SHPO will sponsor workshops on a variety of topics, including environmental review, tax act credits, historic district commissions, and the National Register. For further information contact: David Brook, Administrator, Archaeology & Historic Preservation Section, Division of Archives & History, 109 East Jones Street, Raleigh, NC 27601-2807, ☎ 919-733-4763.

OHIO

May is Ohio Preservation Month. Tom Wolf, of the Ohio Historic Preservation Office, is the coordinator of this year's activities. For further information or a calendar of events, contact Tom at OHPO, 1982 Velma Ave, Columbus, OH 43211, ☎ 614-297-2470.

SOUTH DAKOTA

The HPC office has a booklet that contains the state version of § Section 106 (titled 1-19A-11.1). For more information on the booklet contact Allyson Brooks, Staff Archaeologist, HPC, 3 East Main Street, Box 417, Vermillion, SD 57069.

UTAH

New state legislation was recently passed regarding repatriation, antiquities permits, and SHPO consultation. For further details contact Division of State History, 300 Rio Grande, Salt Lake City, UT 84101, ☎ 801-533-4563.

WYOMING

Wyoming will observe its first Archaeology Week celebrations April 19-25, 1992. Several agencies are combining resources to sponsor educational programs for all ages. The purpose of this observance is to promote public awareness of Wyoming history and prehistory. The goal is to educate the public of the value and importance of non-renewable archaeological resources by promoting public involvement in research, protection, and development of the state's archaeological heritage.

Special activities are scheduled in Casper, Cheyenne, Cody, Ft. Bridger, Jackson, Laramie, Rock Springs, Torrington, and Worland, to name a few. The program is sponsored by various state and federal agencies and private professional organizations.

If you would like to participate or if you want further information, contact one of the coordinator's listed below.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

DR. ROBERT L. STEPHENSON passed away January 14, 1992. Dr. Stephenson retired as Director of the Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology and State Archeologist of South Carolina in 1984, where he had served 16 years.

CORPORATE PROFILES

SOIL SYSTEMS, INC. (SSI), is a private cultural resources consulting firm providing archaeological compliance research to federal, state, and private clients in Arizona and the greater Southwest. The firm was purchased by Cory Dale Breternitz from Professional Service Industries (PSI) in 1984. Current permanent staff consists of 25 professionals, including 2 Ph.D.-level archaeologists, 11 MA-level archaeologists, 6 field and laboratory research assistants, and 6 support staff (a full-time technical editor, accountant, draftsman, computer specialist, and clerical staff). Since 1984 SSI has completed over 175 projects ranging from overviews, surveys, and testing to small- and large-scale data recovery projects in Arizona, California, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, New Mexico, and Texas. The firm has extensive experience in conducting large-scale, multi-year research-oriented data recovery projects associated with transportation and utility corridors primarily in the Phoenix Basin.

The full-time research staff includes a geomorphologist and two archaeobotanists. These specialists provide their analytical and interpretive expertise on all SSI projects, and SSI subcontracts their services to other archaeological firms working in the Southwest. SSI is currently in the final year of a five-year multi-million dollar data recovery program for the Arizona Department of Transportation at Pueblo Grand, a large prehistoric Hohokam village in Metropolitan Phoenix. In May, 1992 the firm will open a branch office in Cortez, Colorado to conduct a four-year data recovery program on the Ute Mountain Ute Reservation. Inquires about the firm can be addressed to 1121 North Second Street, Phoenix, Arizona, 85004, ☎ 602-253-4938.

THE ARCHEOLOGY SERVICE CENTER AT MURRAY STATE UNIVERSITY was officially recognized by the MSU Board of Regents as a program of Murray State in November of 1990, although a contract archeology program had been in place at the university since 1978. The director of the ASC is Kenneth C. Carstens (Ph.D. Washington University, St. Louis), who also serves as director of the anthropology program within the combined departments of Sociology/Anthropology/Socialwork. Pamela A. Schenian (ABD, Northwestern), is the ASC's senior staff archeologist, and conducts the CRM studies for the program. MSU hires additional workers on a per-project basis, but is currently considering adding another full-time employee. The Archeology Service Center is part of the Archeology Laboratory, which has more than 2,000 square feet of lab and storage space. The ASC is only one of three authorized curatorial facilities in Kentucky, housing primarily cultural materials from western and west-central Kentucky. People wishing to find out more about the ASC program may call ☎ 502-732-4058 or 3054.

SAGEBRUSH ARCHAEOLOGICAL CONSULTANTS was established in Ogden, Utah, as a consulting firm specializing in all aspects of cultural resources services in these areas including overviews, archaeological surveys, historical architectural surveys, excavations and National Register nominations. Sagebrush maintains a small staff with specializations in prehistoric and historic archaeology and history. Consultants in history, architecture and other fields are added as project needs arise. More than 500 projects have been completed in 10 western states since 1983, though the vast majority of work has been undertaken in Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, Colorado and Nevada. Major projects completed include inventories and test excavation of sites in three large historic gold mining camps in southern Idaho, major inventory surveys in western South Dakota, HABS and HAER studies of historic farmsteads and engineering structures in Utah, mapping and evaluation of protohistoric antelope traps in eastern Nevada, architectural inventories and evaluations of historic neighborhoods in Ogden and Salt Lake City, Utah, and excavations and inventories on oil field projects in western Wyoming.

GRAY & PAPE, INC., is a multi-disciplinary firm specializing in cultural resources management and historic preservation. A women's business enterprise, headed by Marlesa A. Gray and W. Kevin Pape, Gray & Pape has undertaken cultural resources studies for a wide range of clients, including both governmental agencies and many private sector companies. Our project experience covers a broad geographical area including the Midwest and the Mid-Atlantic regions, with extensive experience in conducting all phases of cultural resources investigations on both areal and linear corridor projects.

The full- and part-time staff of 26 includes personnel experienced in all phases of cultural resources studies: analysis of historic/cultural landscapes, archaeological/historical site survey and literature search, and full-scale data recovery. Key personnel are familiar with all federal and state regulations concerning the identification and preservation of historic, archaeological, and architectural resources. The senior staff's qualifications satisfy National Park Service guidelines and standards promulgated by the Society of Professional Archaeologists.

Our historic preservation staff has experience in the preparation of historic preservation investment tax credit applications, walking tour brochures, historic building guide booklets, and historic building rehabilitation practices and design guidelines. The staff has prepared comprehensive

CORRECTION:

Z ENVIRONMENTAL SEMINAR ON THE NHPA

In the February 1992 issue of The Grapevine, an unintentional error was made in the review article: "Z Environmental Services' National Historic Preservation Act and the Section 106 Review Process". The article stated incorrectly, on page 6, ¶ 1 that "Mr. Jordan E. Tannenbaum (former staff member, Advisory Council on Historic Preservation) led the participants through the Council's short course on the National Historic Preservation Act and the sequential steps of the § 106 Review Process." The correct statement is "Mr. Jordan E. Tannenbaum led the participants through the Z Environmental Seminar on the National Historic Preservation Act..." The Grapevine apologizes for this unintentional error.

WORKSHOP ANNOUNCEMENTS

CERTIFIED LOCAL GOVERNMENT WORKSHOP. On April 23 - 24, 1992, the Arkansas Historic Preservation Program (AHPP) will host a training workshop on protective ordinances for historic districts and the Certified Local Government (CLG) program. The session will focus on writing effective historic district ordinances or strengthening existing ordinances; the role of historic district commissions; how to join the CLG program; and types of local projects that can be funded with CLG money. Speakers include Frank Gilbert of the National Trust for Historic Preservation; G. Bernard Callan, Jr., of the National Alliance of Preservation Commissions; Caryl Sumner of the Gwinnett County, GA, County Attorney's Office; Nancy Jane Baker of the Tennessee State Historic Preservation Office; and Randy Jeffery of the AHPP.

The workshop will be held at the Arkansas Power and Light Company Building Reddy Room, 900 South Louisiana, Little Rock. Registration is $25. For more information contact: The Arkansas Historic Preservation Program, Attn: CLG Workshop, 225 East Markham, Suite 200, Little Rock, AR 72201, ☎ 501-324-9346.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL SITE STABILIZATION WORKSHOP

MAY 11-15, 1992
VANCOUVER, WASHINGTON

The Pacific Northwest Region of the National Park Service, in cooperation with NPS Southeast Regional Office and the national Clearinghouse for Archaeological Site Stabilization is offering a 40-hour workshop on archaeological site stabilization. This course will provide participants with an overview of archaeological site stabilization and preservation as a viable and cost-effective mechanism for resource management. This workshop is designed to familiarize the participants with the basic techniques of site stabilization through a combination of lectures and case history presentations. Through actual work on a selected site, participants will learn design requirements needed in the development of a site preservation program. Time will be provided for voluntary presentations and discussions of individual site stabilization problems. Students are invited to show up to five slides when making this presentation.

The Division of Continuing Studies at the University of Mississippi will provide four continuing education credit units to participants upon completion of the workshop. There will be no fees for these units and no tuition charge for the course.

Course sessions include the following:

Primacy of Preservation in Cultural Resource Management.	Jim Thomson John Ehrenhard Dick Waldbauer

WORKSHOP REVIEWS

ODNR Division of Reclamation Second
Education Forum on Archeology

By Dr. Jeffrey Reichwein

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources Division of Reclamation sponsored its second educational forum on archeology for Ohio's mining industry and preservation community on March 18, 1992, at the Ohio University regional campus, Zanesville, Ohio. Over twenty surface- and underground-mining companies and several contracting archeology firms attended the day-long forum.

The morning session was devoted to presentations by the Ohio Historic Preservation Office staff on the documentation of historic and prehistoric properties on Ohio Archeological and Historic Inventory forms for both the non-professional and professional preservationist. Avenues to reduce initial archaeology costs to industry also were explored.

The afternoon session focused on the findings of the task force committee on Archeological Investigations and special studies for an Industry Preliminary Report. The task force is made up of industry, preservation, and federal and state mining regulatory personnel. Several findings options were identified and presented to the audience to reduce or share costs of surveys, provide computerization of sites in Ohio's coal region, and develop an experiment in underground mining impacts to subsurface sites by the industry and the Office of Surface Mining and Division of Reclamation. A formal report with recommendations will be submitted to the Chief of the Division of Reclamation in mid-April, 1992.

If you have any questions on the second educational forum, please contact Dr. Jeffrey C. Reichwein, ODNR Division of Reclamation, Bldg H-3, Fountain Square, Columbus, OH 43224, ☎ 614-265-6641.
